Maternal vs Paternal

When describing our extended family, such as grandparents, we give the listener more information by mentioning whether they are on the maternal side ('ma' meaning mother's side) or the paternal side ('pa' meaning father's side).

Your maternal grandparents, cousins, etc. are blood-related to your mother, while your paternal side is related to your father.

See the BONUS sentence above; it says my "paternal grandparents" - that is, your father's mother and father.
